CH P 559: PROJECT WORK AND DISSERTAION

COURSE OUTCOME:

Enable the students:

- To design the project by collecting required background material by referring the literature
- To understand the functioning and safety features in the industry.
- To improve the experimental and soft skills.
- To learn various analytical and instrumental techniques and interpretation of analytical data.

*DISSERTATION:

A student in the Second Semester (at the end of the Second Semester) shall register for dissertation which carries four credits in the Fourth Semester. The workload for dissertation is four hours tutorial per week and six hours practical per week. Practical consists of identification of the topic, field work, collecting secondary data, review of literature, questionnaire and collecting the primary data. A student in the Third Semester shall work the dissertation and in lieu of the Retail Management paper code CMS551 in the fourth semester.

Note: A student can opt for dissertation in lieu of the Retail Management paper code CMS551 in the 4th Semester.

EC553 PROJECT

- Leaning Objectives and outcome
- Project work (replacing a paper) is to train students in basic research skills.
- By doing project work students are expected to acquire skills of social science research, and prepare a dissertation on a topic with a guidance of a supervisor.

DISSERTATION FORMAT

General Guidelines

1. Selection of a Topic
2. Pilot Survey, if needed
3. Significance of the Study
4. Review of Literature
5. Research Gap (Optional)
6. Conceptual Framework – Conceptualization & Operationalization (precise and specific meaning of the terms and concepts)
7. Theoretical framework (Optional)
8. Formulation of Research Questions /Issues
9. Research objectives
10. Hypotheses (Optional)
11. Coverage (Universe/ Sample & period of study)
12. Data source (Primary/Secondary)
13. Tools of analysis (Analytical Framework)
14. Social Relevance of the study
15. Limitations of the study

MAJOR EXPERIMENTS (1-5)

1. Experiment to measure the solute potential of the cell sap by plasmolytic method.
2. Experiment to show the effect of environmental factors on the transpiration rate using Ganong's potometer.
3. Determination of the relation between absorption and transpiration.
4. Experiment to determine the suction due to transpiration.
5. Determination of porosity of soil samples from forest (humus), paddy field and coastal regions (sand) and determination of their pH.

CHEMICAL TESTS

6. Estimation of carbohydrates
7. Estimation of proteins

DEMONSTRATION EXPERIMENTS

8. a) Potato osmoscope experiment

   b)Thistle funnel experiment
   c) Experiment to demonstrate imbibition pressure by germinating seeds
9. a) Determination of differential rate of transpiration on the two surfaces of leaf using Garreau's apparatus.
   b) Bell jar experiment
   c) Experiment to prove aeriferous system in plants.
10. Study of pond ecosystem,

Note:- PROJECT WORK ON ECOLOGY

Students should be prepare a project on Ecosystem[pond ecosystem /forest ecosystem/grassland ecosystem/river ecosystem/marine ecosystem] and submit the report at the time of practical examination along with the certified class record

1	Determination of pII of different types of Soils
2	Estimation of salinity of soil/water samples.
3	Study of Ecological instruments – Wet and Dry thermometer, Altimeter, Hygrometer, Soil thermometer, Rain Gauge, Barometer, etc
4	Hydrophytes: Morphological adaptations in *Pistia, Eichhornia, Hydrilla, Nymphaea*and Anatomical adaptations of Hydrophytes -Hydrilla and Nymphaea.
5	Xerophytes: Morphological adaptations in *Asparagus, Casuarina, Acacia, Aloe vera,Euphorbia tirucalli*and Anatomical adaptations of Casuarina phylloclade.
6	Epiphytes:Morphological adaptations in Acampe, Bulbophyllum, Drynaria and Anatomical adaptations of epiphytic root of Acampe/ Vanda. Halophytes: Vivipary and Pneumatophores
7	Study of local vegetation types by field trips
8	Project work
9	Project work
10	Project work

PROJECT WORK ON ECOLOGY:

Students should undertake a short project related to any of the following ecological aspects, either individually or in groups, and submit the report at the time of practical examination along with the certified class record.

Project Reports to be prepared according to the Format provided.

Projects may be undertaken on:

- Structure of local ecosystems - pond ecosystem /forest ecosystem/grassland ecosystem/river ecosystem/marine ecosystem.
- Documentation/assessment of ecosystem services like carbon sequestration by trees.
- Enumeration/documentation of local biodiversity
- Listing of local RET species of plants, assessment of their population status, etc.
- Documentation of local conservation practices , sacred trees, sacred landscapes, etc.
- Documentation/Assessment of local pollution issues, etc.

Format for Project Report (Typed or Handwritten): The project Report must present information organised in the following sections. The number of pages may be limited to 10-15typed pages in case of individual projects and 20-25 pages, in case of group projects.

1.	Introduction with objectives of the work
2.	Review of literature/ earlier work
3	Study area and Methods followed

SEMESTER – V

BSCBOP 334: Plant Physiology -Practicals

Practical No.	Experiment
	Major Experiments:
1	Experiment to measure the solute potential of the cell sap by plasmolytic method.
2	Demonstration/ Determination of rate of transpiration using Ganongs Potometer
3	Demonstration of transpiration pull/Suction force due to transpiration.
4	Separation of plant pigments by paper chromatography method.
5	Determination of RQ of germinating seeds using Ganongs Respirometer
6	Demonstration of activity of Peroxidase/Catalase enzyme
7	Estimation of sugar/protein by colorimetric method
	Minor Experiments/Demonstrations
1	Potato osmoscope /Thistle funnel experiment to demonstrate osmosis
2	Demonstration of unequal transpiration from leaf surfaces using GarreausPotometer
3	Demonstration of imbibition pressure using germinating seeds
4	Demonstration of O_2 liberation during photosynthesis by bubbling method
5	Measurement of growth using arc auxanometer
6	Demonstration of plant movements – Heliotropism, Geotropism, Hydrotropism
7	Demonstration of transpiration using bell jar
8	Demonstration of fermentation using Kuhn's Fermentation vessel

PROJECT WORK

Course objective: This paper aims to provide information to the students to understand the basic skills and basic tools of historical analysis that historians used in research and historical writings

Course outcome:

- After the completion of course the student's develops interpretation based on different categories of analysis.
- The students will produce their own historical project work which develops their
- The students will learn to distinguish between primary and secondary sources in the field of history, use of proper citation, footnotes etc.

- Unit-I
  Introduction

  Unit-II
  Archaeology and Literary survey

  Unit-III
  Methodology.

  Unit-IV
  Select Bibliography

Each student has to compulsory submit a project work. (English/Kannada). The project shall be submitted at the end of the course work of the IV semester. It shall consists minimum 25 pages and maximum 50 pages excluding the front pages and bibliography. It shall be typed in A4 size papers, font size 12-14, font type- Times new Roman/Nudi, lines spacing – 1.5 minimum including clear paragraph.

Covid Compodium

III B.Sc Microbiology students
2020-21 batches

Department of Microbiology
University College Mangalore

Preamble

For final year B.Sc vth Semester Microbiology students, field visit is a part of curriculum. In the Covid -19 global pandemic, visit to the industry/Institute or Diagnostic lab was prohibited. Hence all the final year B.Sc Students were informed to visit the virtual websites related to covid and collect the information Covid -19 pandemic from history and development of the vaccine. All of them have put sincere efforts to write their topic well and accompanied by the references from where they obtained the Covid information. Collection of these topics is compiled as 'Covid Compodium' and it is made available for the readers in the Microbiology department.

I thank all the students for their contribution esp. Agaje Gowri and Aishwarya for submitting two topics. Also the contribution of our Lab assistant, Rakshitha for computer work is worth appreciable. My regards to Mrs.Sumangala, Kalavathi, Rakshitha and Mrs Usha for their support and Cooperation in cooperation.
