Managing weeds in various habitats leads to difficulties in the most attractive way to maintain runoff and erosion. By reducing runoff, water erosion is made available for grass growth. By reducing erosion, soil nutrients and organic matter are retained in place and erosion problems are minimized. In addition, grass cover is important for soil health and sustainability. A weed is a unwanted and wide spreading plant species in an undesirable place. Probably it's a plant in the wrong place. Weeds are also referred as unwanted plants in human controlled settings, such as lawns, fields, gardens, lawns, and parks. Weeds are the natural ground cover on earth protecting erosion and also improve the soil quality. In the present study, we have conducted a survey in campus to collect data on weeds and their spreading mechanism in the university college campus. Our data is based on the field of the campus site and a habitat for many grass species is ready for diverse weeds.

Plant Name	Common Name	Characteristics
Eleusine indica	Common grass	Annual, 1-2m tall, common in open areas
Cyperus rotundus	Round-headed knotgrass	Perennial, 1-2m tall, common in open areas
Digitaria pruriens	Prickly heat	Annual, 1-2m tall, common in open areas

CONCLUSION

- Weeds play an important role in soil conservation.
- It forms a green cover on the barren lands and the fallow lands.
- 50% of the campus green cover is by weeds.
- Weeds are also an important source of medicines and raw materials for agricultural practitioners.
- Clearing campus grounds should not involve removing weeds or unnecessary plants that appear to be weeds (or for rain retention).
- Along with documentation we created awareness about the ecological importance of weeds and their medicinal values through group discussions and College association meetings.

Sub: To deploy YRC volunteers for internship prog.
 Ref. No: IBC/S/DK/YRC/2021-2022/1444-21-01-2021

As subject and reference cited above, I would like to bring to your kind notice that, the Para No. 8 of the Program Guidelines of Youth Red Cross Manual, stated unequivocally that the idea of internship is to familiarize the volunteers in humanitarian service and apply their knowledge in field situations. There are ample opportunities to the youth to involve and render their involuntic service to the people who are in distress. In this connection our Red Cross branch has set up a Help Desk (Community Help Centre) in the Govt. Wenlock Hospital, Mangalore, where hundreds of suffering patients come from across the state every day. They need some assistance which can be provided by our YRC volunteers. This will certainly help the patients and their parties immensely. This is a most suitable platform for the voluntary service.

In view of this, I request you and your YRC programme officer to deploy the interested YRC volunteers for internship in the Govt. Wenlock hospital. In this regard the volunteers name should send to the nodal office through email yrcmangalore02@gmail.com on or before 05.02.2021 in below said prescribed format.

The Indian Red Cross Society, BK will extend their logistic support and issue the certificates to those who have completed internship course successfully. The Mangalore University, Youth Red Cross considers this certificate when issuing a membership certificate.

With this I would like to request you to encourage more and more YRC volunteers of your college to take part in this voluntary service.

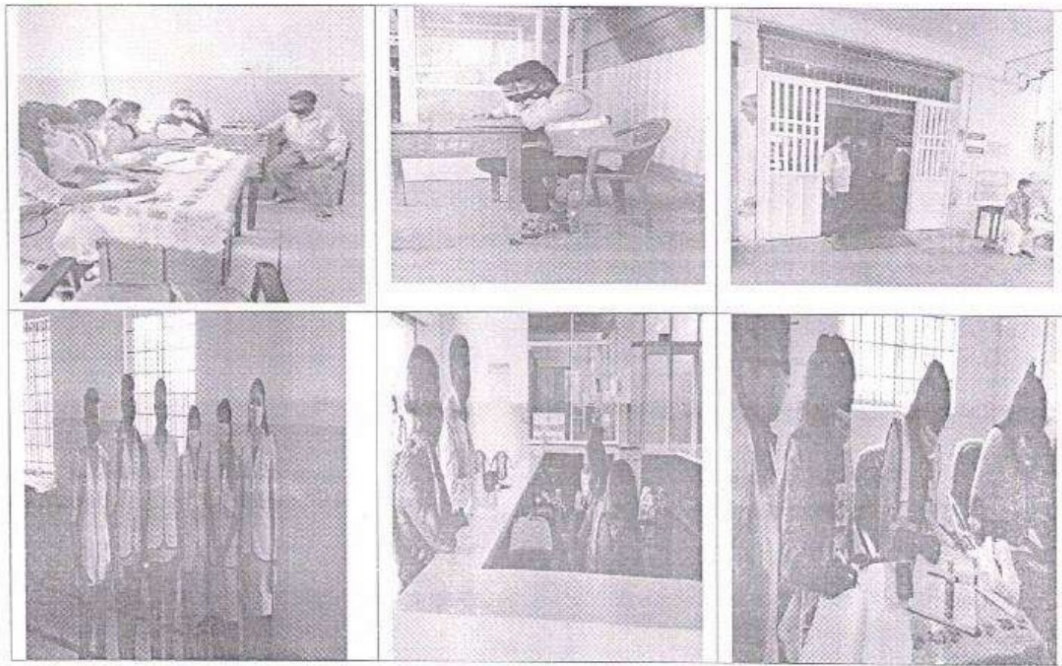

Thanking you,

A tribute of music, painting to Mahatma

Mangalore: English Association of University College Mangalore celebrated Martyrs' Day in a meaningful way by paying tribute to Mahatma Gandhiji through music and paintings on the occasion of his death anniversary, at Ravindra Kalabhavan on Wednesday.

University College Mangalore Principal Dr. Uday Kumar M A inaugurated the event titled 'Remembering the Mahatma and martyrdom'. Vidhwan Gurudas Shenoy and troupe paid a tribute to the Mahatma with melodious music. The accomplished musician was associated by Taranath Joshi in Sitar, Raghunath Prabhu in Tabla, Lamburi by Manish Das, Gurudas Shenoy in Harmonium and Shanta Adiyar was the co-singer. The programme was broadcasted by Akashwani and Doordarshan.

It is always believed that Mahatma lived even after death through the artistic creations. Famous artists painted Mahatma Gandhi in their own style. The event displayed 104 such cards with the name of the artist (4 were with quotations). In fact, there were 208 paintings of Mahatma by legendary painters.

Mangalore University Political Science department retired Chairman Dr. Rajaram Tholpadi and others were present.
